Holiness & How to Get That Way

Oh, how many kinds of religious people there are in the world! Some of them are super spiritual. These talk about religion easily, freely ... and constantly ... which is why we can hardly refer to them as anything other than “religious”.

Then there are academic believers. They like to ponder the dogmas, doctrines, the great truths of the Church. These are religious thinkers ... theologians.

There’s also a religious group I call “muscular Christians”. They are strong believers that you can always depend upon. In fact, they are so reliable I’m sure their patron saint must be John Wayne.

There are mystics, with a little magic in their religion, the simple faithful whose religiousness is often overlooked, and the complicated, confused seekers of the Faith who are so sincere and so needy.

But there is one thing you can say about all these religious people. In his or her own way, they are all trying to find and develop an inner, spiritual holiness.

To accomplish this, of course, they pray ... and Catholic Christians also receive the sacraments. But, now, I want to suggest that there is another ... indispensable ... means of growth in the spiritual life. In addition to prayer and the Eucharist ... it’s my opinion that most people simply do not grow in spirituality unless they make use of this third means. All religious people, must ... READ

Oh, I know that God is good and He certainly provides for the illiterate in other ways. But for most of us, reading the Holy Bible and other spiritual books and writings provides ideas we otherwise would not think of. Sacred writers guide us to a deeper understanding of the "truth that sets us free" and their insights are available to us all ... in books.

Humbly and happily I want to thank here a few of the Christian writers who have helped me: C.S. Lewis, Henri Nouwen, Thomas A. Kempis, Hans Kung, Ron Beshara, Pope Benedict XVI, Eugene Kennedy, Wm. Paul Young, Ronald Rolheiser ... oh, don't forget ... Matthew, Mark, Luke and John.

St. Teresa of Avila

Feast Day: October 15

Teresa lived in an age of exploration as well as political, social and religious upheaval. It was the 16th century, a time of turmoil and reform. She was born before the Protestant Reformation and died almost 20 years after the closing of the Council of Trent. The gift of God to Teresa in and through which she became holy and left her mark on the Church and the world is threefold: She was a woman; she was a contemplative; she was an active reformer.

As a woman, Teresa stood on her own two feet, even in the man's world of her time. She was "her own woman," entering the Carmelites despite strong opposition from her father. She is a person wrapped not so much in silence as in mystery. Beautiful, talented, outgoing, adaptable, affectionate, courageous, enthusiastic, she was totally human. Like Jesus, she was a mystery of paradoxes: wise, yet practical; intelligent, yet much in tune with her experience; a mystic, yet an energetic reformer.

Teresa was a woman "for God," a woman of prayer, discipline and compassion. Her heart belonged to God. Her ongoing conversion was an arduous lifelong struggle, involving ongoing purification and suffering. She was misunderstood, misjudged, opposed in her efforts at reform. Yet she struggled on, courageous and faithful; she struggled with her own mediocrity, her illness, her opposition. And in the midst of all this she clung to God in life and in prayer. Her writings on prayer and contemplation are drawn from her experience: powerful, practical and graceful.

Teresa was a woman "for others." Though a contemplative, she spent much of her time and energy seeking to reform herself and the Carmelites, to lead them back to the full observance of the primitive Rule. She founded over a half-dozen new monasteries. She traveled, wrote, fought—always to renew, to reform. In her self, in her prayer, in her life, in her efforts to reform, in all the people she touched, she was a woman for others, a woman who inspired and gave life. Her writings, especially the Way of Perfection and The Interior Castle, have helped generations of believers. In 1970, the Church gave her the title she had long held in the popular mind: doctor of the Church. She and St. Catherine of Siena were the first women so honored.

Prayer of St. Teresa of Avila

Lord,

You know better than I myself that I am growing older and will someday be old.

Keep me from the habit of thinking I must say something on every subject and on every occasion.

Release me from trying to straighten out everybody's affairs.

Make me thoughtful but not moody; helpful but not bossy.

Keep my mind free from the recital of endless details; give me wings to get to the point.

Seal my lips on my aches and pains; they are increasing, and love of rehearsing them is becoming sweeter as the years go by.

I dare not ask for improved memory, but for a growing humility and a lessening sureness when my memory seems to clash with the memories of others.

Teach me the glorious lesson that occasionally I may be mistaken.

Keep me reasonably sweet, for a sour old person is one of the crowning works of the devil.

Give me the ability to see good things in unexpected places and talents in unexpected people; and give, O Lord, the grace to tell them so.

Amen.

The book to read is not the one which thinks for you, but the one which makes you think. No book in the world equals the Bible for that. ~Mccosh
